fr.[2], t.[3], [4-5], 6-138, [139-142 adv. list of books] p.; illus.; 10 cm.; Dutch paper covers. The title-page of the PP copy differs in having, "The Renowned Hero". Life and Adventures p. [5]-138. English version 3.

English ed. 1st. unabridged ed. London: W. Taylor. 1719. (NPM; BM; Esdaile).

Abridged ed., English version 3, [London]: Printed for the inhabitants of his Island, and Sold by all the Booksellers in the World. Price Sixpence bound. [ca. 1768] (CtHi; Cahoon 200—Oppenheimer). Probably published in London by F. Newbery and T. Carnan [ca. 1768]. Cahoon's imprint [Newbery 1760] is open to question since John Newbery was the only member of the family publishing in 1760. No advertisement of Robinson Crusoe has been located in any John Newbery list. London: adv. by Newbery and Carnan in The History Of Little Goody Two-Shoes. 1768. (Welch); T. Carnan, 1784. (DLC); F. Power & Co. 1789. (MiU); E. Newbery, 1797. (Ball); Darton and Harvey, 1798. Coveely [sic. i.e. Coverly].* * * Price Three Pence. [ca. 1784].

illus.[1], fr. [2], t.[3], [4], 5-32 p. illus.; 10 cm. The last t of the word that on t.[3] is higher than the other letters; the three stars before the word Price are in the form of a triangle; no punctuation after Boston. The lower illus. of the front., and illus. p. 13, 28 were used by N. Coverly, in his 1783 ed. of Goody Two-Shoes, no. 427.2 p. 60, 14, 64 respectively. These illus. are drawn in the reverse from both the 3ed. London, J. Newbery, 1766 ed. and the New York, Hugh Gaine, 1775 ed., no. 427.1 of Goody Two-Shoes. The wood cut illus. of the "Statue of a Man" on p. 64 of Coverly's 1783 ed. of Goody Two-Shoes has the thick ruled borders in perfect condition. In the above ed. of Robinson Crusoe no. 260.2 the same cut on p. 28 the cut has been damaged and there is an indentation in the upper left border. This defect must have occurred after 1783 and for this reason the book is dated [ca. 1784]. Wonderful Life &c.; p. [4]-32. English version 4 with textual variations. The first portion of the last paragraph: I cannot express the agony it now causes in me. All American ed. of English version 4 have the extra word now in the beginning of the last paragraph.

English ed. of English version 4, London, entitled: The Life And Adventures Of Robinson Crusoe. Written by Himself. T. Evans, Long

Lane, West Smithfield. Price 1d. (DLC); T. Evans fl. 1800 (St. John Osborne p. 474); York: J. Kendrew [ca. 1820] (Welch; CtY; NBL 612). These were probably copied from a much earlier English ed. of which no copy is known and from which the above American ed. was also copied.

English version 4. portion of the first and last sentences of the first and last paragraphs of the [ca. 1820] ed.: Life and Adventures, With permission, reader, I will relate to you . . . in my power to entertain you. . . . I cannot express the agony it causes in me; . . . the most miserable object living, and heartily I repent giving way to that restless disposition which made me leave my parents, as from that hour I date all the subsequent misfortunes of my life.

The page numbers and sigs. are in slightly different positions on certain pages of 260.6a, although many pages are identical with 260.6. On p. 13 of 260.6a the "3" lies above the space and slightly over the g of Ich gab and the "1" is above the h, also sig. "B" is below the hu of unschuldig. In 260.6 the number "13" is above the ga of gab and sig. "B" is below the di of unschuldig. Many such variations in type set up occur. The frontispieces are the same in 260.6 and 260.6a. In 260.6a there is a group of 6 different type ornaments below the word Ende on p. 154. The top one is circular with a central fleur-de-lis, and is the same ornament also used in the corners of the border of the frontispiece. Below this is a column of three small ornaments the same as those below the cut of the frontispiece, and flanked on either side by a large scroll-like ornament. The basal line of 3 ornaments consists of a central squarish checkerboard-like one, the same as those used above the cut of the frontispiece, and flanked on either side by an asterisk-like ornament.

260.8 — THE LIFE AND MOST SURPRISING ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE, Of York, Mariner. Containing a full and particular Account how he lived twenty-eight years in an uninhabited Island on the coast of America: How his ship was lost in a storm, and all his companions drowned; and how he was cast upon the shore by the wreck: With a true Relation how he was at last miraculously preserved by Pirates. Faithfully epitomized from the Three Volumes, and adorned with cuts, suited to the most remarkable stories. Philadelphia: Printed by Peter Stewart, West side of Second-street, ninth Door above Chesnut-street. M,DCC, LXXXIX.

fr.[2], t.[3], [4-5], 6-180 p.; illus.; 14 cm.; bound in leather. Preface p. [4]; Life and Adventures, p. [5]-93; Further Adventures p. [94]-156; Vision of the Angelic World p. [157]-180; [6 lines of verse] Life's but a snare, . . . p. 180. Variant issue 1 of English version 1. The preface, 1st. vol. and the beginning of the 2nd. vol. follow English version 1 below with many textual changes. The last sentences of the 1st. two vols. end: [1st. vol.], . . . year 1689 . . . my island. An account of which you shall have in the second volume.; [2nd. vol.], . . . England, where I hope to have the blessing of ending my days in peace. The last part of the 2nd. vol. p. 153-155 follows p. 212-214 of the Worcester 1794 ed., English version 2, no. 260.25 with variations. The 3rd. vol. is a mixed abridgement of English version 1 and 2 with the last paragraph and closing 6 lines of verse the same as English version 1. English ed. of the 1st. abr. ed. London: 1st t. T. Cox, 1719, 2nd. t. E. Smith, 1719. (CtY; Esdaile; BM). This abr. ed. or English version 1a was not printed in America, but rewritten English version 1 may have been based on it.

English ed. of English version 1, London: Edw. Midwinter. [172?] (CtY; NBL 606 [dated ca. 1750]); A. Bettesworth and C. Hitch; J. Osborn, R. Ware, J. Hodges, 1734. (CtY); A Bettesworth and C. Crowder and Comp., H. Woodgate, and S. Brookes; and C. Ware, 1759. (CtY; BM); Glasgow: R. Smith, 1762. (DLC); Edinburgh: Alex. M'Caslan, 1772. (CtY); London: Printed for the Booksellers of London and Westminster, 1775. (Welch, DLC); J. Bew, 1780. (MiU); J. Fuller, n.d. (MiU; BM dated [1765?]); Robert Bassam, 1793. (CtY); J. Hollis, [1796] (Welch; BM dated [1770?]; CtY dated [1797?]). The title pages of the above English ed. start: The Wonderful Life and Most Surprising Adventures Of . . . except the 1772 ed. which has: The Life And Most Surprising Adventures.

English version 1. Portion of the first and last sentences or the last two sentences of the first and last paragraphs of the preface and each volume of [172?] ed.: Preface, In this new epitome, . . . in this edition. . . . Let this epitome, . . . to his perusal. Life and Adventures [Vol. I.], He that pretends . . . the following narration. . . . Having cast my Anchor, . . . did in the year, 1649 [sic. i.e. 1694] and in my passage, visited my island. A full and . . . the subject of the second and third volume [sic. i.e. volumes] of my narrative; Farther Adventures, Vol. II., My new Kingdom . . . death of my wife . . . After we had passed the River Kirtza, . . . ten years and nine months absence; Vision of the Angelick World, Vol. III., Solitude is a noble refiner . . . with an enemy. . . . It would be too long to inform . . . this side the Angelick World. [6 lines of verse] Life's but a snare, . . . trembling from the stage.

English and American ed. follow the text of English version 1 with changes. The Preface and 3ed. vol. may be omitted. Sentences, words, dates, and the spelling of words are changed. "Angelick" may be spelled "Angelic" as in most editions. The end of 3ed. vol. shows the greatest variation. The lines of verse are often omitted and different parts of the prose abridged. In the English ed. the date near the end of the 1st vol. is "1649" [sic. i.e. 1694] in [172?], 1734 ed.; "1696" in 1772 ed.; and "1689" in the remaining ones. The American ed. show the greatest diversity, often mixing English version 1 with 2 or 2a. In this respect the J. Hollis [1796] ed. resembles an American mixture. The preface and the beginning of the 1st. vol. are similar to English version 2a, 260.47, while the end of the 1st vol. and 2nd. and 3ed. vols. follow English version 1. Because of the great variation in American ed. close to English version 1, those having characteristic endings to the 1st. and 2nd. vols. are called variant issues, numbers 1, 2, 3, and described in order under 260.8, 260.9, 260.21.

I believe the book is Samuel Hall's Boston edition of 1794, because of the two large letters  $\begin{matrix} M \\ M \end{matrix}$  on the recto of the frontispiece, which I have only found in S. Hall's 10 cm. type books printed in 1794. At the bottom of p. 25 S. Hall's address is printed. The printer's ornaments of a crown and angel's head were used extensively by S. Hall in his 10 cm. type books printed in 1794, although they were also used as early as 1793 and later. Adv. by S. Hall, 1794 in 615.6.

280.1 [—] THE PEACOCK "AT HOME:" A Sequel To The Butterfly's Ball. Written By A Lady. New York: Published By David Longworth, At the Dramatic Repository, Shakspeare' Gallery. 1808.

fr.[2], t.[3], [4-5], 6-20 p.; 4 pl. including front. signed AA [Alexander Anderson]; 14 cm.; pr. yellow paper covers.

Cover title: No. 1 Of The Substitute, Containing The Peacock At Home. Being A Sequel To "The Butterfly's Ball" Written by a Lady. To Which Is Added The Butterfly's Ball. New-York: Published By David Longworth. 1808. In the London 1816 ed. of Hofland's The Blind Farmer, no. 549.1, on the third page of adv. at rear of the book J. Harris states that 25,000 copies of The Peacock at Home had been sold.

This is the first American ed. of Catherine Ann Dorset's The Peacock "At Home". It is a sequel to The Butterfly's Ball by William Roscoe the first American ed. of which also appears in this book. See Roscoe, William, no. 1011 and The Butterfly's Birthday by the same author no. 1012.1.

English ed. London: J. Harris January 1st. 1807. (Welch, Ball Gumuchian 2241-2243; BM, CCamarSJ; CtHi; CaOTP; NBL 347; NRU); J. Harris, 1808. (Ball Gumuchian 2246, CaOTP Osborne p. 61, Welch); J. 280.2 [—] ——— "AT HOME:" Or Grand Assemblage Of Birds. Written By Roscoe. Illustrated With Elegant Engravings. Philadelphia: Published and sold Wholesale by Wm. Charles, and may be had of all the Booksellers. 1814. W. M'Culloch, Printer.

fr.[ii], t.[1], [2, bl.], [pl. opp. p. [3]], [3], 4-16 p.; 7 full page plates including front.; 13.5 cm.; pr. yellow paper covers. Page "11" printed "14," p. "14" printed "11." Cover title is almost same as title except that Illustrated with Eight Plates is substituted for "Illustrated With Elegant Engravings." This is an error because there are only 7. The statement Written By Roscoe is on the title page wrongly because the author was Mrs. Dorset.

Part II. is part of a large publisher's remainder inherited by Dr. Rosenbach. Harry and Lucy was written by Maria Edgeworth's father, Richard Lovell Edgeworth, with the assistance of his second wife Honora Sneyd. It was published under the title: Practical Education: Or, The History Of Harry And Lucy. Vol. II. . . . Litchfield: Printed By J. Jackson, And Sold By J. Johnson. . . . MDCCLXXX. (CLU Sadleir copy which belonged to Maria Edgeworth; CtY Slade copy; Slade p. 6 with fac. of Vol. II. opp. p. 6., which copy is now in CLU; University Library Cambridge.

No copy of Vol. I. is known. "The text of Vol. II. corresponds to Early Lessons, Harry and Lucy, Part I, 1801." (Slade p. 4). Thomas Day according to Slade commenced Sandford and Merton intending it to be a short story to be inserted in a more expanded version of Harry and Lucy. With the illness and death of Honora Edgeworth, Richard Edgeworth never completed his work. Day's interest in education having been aroused by Edgeworth wrote a longer work of Sandford and Merton than he intended.

fr.[2], [5], 6-126, [127] p.; illus.; 10.5 cm.; adv. caption p.[127]: Just published and constantly for sale at/Ashbel Stoddard's Printing-Office, in/Hudson, by the gross, dozen, or single,/the following PICTURE BOOKS for Children,/ . . . The first book on the list is "The New England Primer improved." The last line on the page reads: "And a variety of entertaining Pamphlets." The entire p.[127] is identical, both in context and type set up, with p.[31] of Johnson's Hermit Of the Forest. Hudson: A. Stoddard, 1804., no. 615.17, except that the 11th book advertised in 337 is "The Hermit Of The Forest, and the Wandering Infants" which is omitted in no. 615.17. Since the advertisement caption varies in different years it is probable that the above caption used in both books was printed in the same year or 1804. The text is the same and most of the wood cut illus. are from the same blocks used by A. Stoddard in his 1794 ed. of Solomon Sobersides' Christmas Tales, no. 1089.1. The type set up differs in both books as well as the running title at the top of the pages of the text. In no. 337 the following wood cut illus. on p. 31, 54, 61 show breaks or the loss of small portions of the border of the cuts which are present in no. 1089.1. These imperfections in the cuts are added evidence that no. 337 must have been printed later than no. 1089.1.

392 THE FRIAR AND BOY: Or, The Young Piper's pleasant Pastime. Containing the witty Adventures betwixt the Friar and Boy, in relation to his Step Mother, whom he fairly fitted for her unmerciful cruelty. Boston: Printed for, and Sold by A. Barclay, Second Door North of the three King's in Corn-hill. 1767. Price 6 Coppers.

t.[1], [2], 3-24 p.; 15 cm.; p.[2] has a list of books for sale among which are Robinson Crusoe, Goose's Tales, Arabian Nights, Entertainment, History of Mother Bunch, Adventures of a Black Coat, Prodigal Daughter, Tom Tram, Jack The Piper, Jack Horner, Jack & The Giants. While this typical chapbook was not written for children it was undoubtedly read by children and was the type the Puritan parents did not relish having their children read. Because of such books full of earthy, lusty, and vulgar humor, Puritan parents readily bought more moral fare for their children published in England by Thomas Boreman, Mary Cooper, John Newbery and others and so insured the success of publishers of moral children's books.

[GREEN, WILLIAM] 1771-1801.

432.1 [—] THE SCHOOL OF GOOD MANNERS: Containing, I. Rules for children's behavior in every situation in life. II. A brief summary of the doctrines contained in the Holy Scriptures. III. An explanation of many terms used in moral philosophy and divinity. IV. Fourteen short forms of prayer composed for the use of children, particularly for such as attend schools, and academies, for every morning and evening, in the course of a week. By The Preceptor Of The Ladies Academy In New-London. New-London [Conn.]: Printed By Samuel Green. [ca. 1801?]

t.[1], [2-3], 4-48 p.; 16.5 cm.; marbled paper covers. This is a different book than Moody's School of Good Manners, having been entirely rewritten.

Vail obtained the "title from Anderson's auction catalogue 1602, November 14, 1921, No. 289. Sold for $20. 'On the inside cover is an inscription by a former owner, dated 1804.' There was a 'Ladies Academy' at New-London from 1799-1834. The first teacher of the school was William Green, a native of the town and a graduate of Dartmouth, 1791. He ran the school until his death on December 26, 1801, and so was probably the author of this variant of The School of good manners." Vail.
