

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF
AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS, 1690-1820.

PART XVI: SOUTH CAROLINA

COMPILED BY CLARENCE S. BRIGHAM

The following bibliography attempts, first, to present an historical sketch of every newspaper printed in the United States from 1690 to 1820; secondly, to locate all files found in the various libraries of the country; and thirdly, to give a complete check list of the issues in the library of the American Antiquarian Society.

The historical sketch of each paper gives the title, the date of establishment, the name of the editor or publisher, the frequency of issue and the date of discontinuance. It also attempts to give the exact date of issue when a change in title or name of publisher or frequency of publication occurs.

In locating files to be found in various libraries, no attempt is made to list every issue. In the case of common papers which are to be found in many libraries, only the longer files are noted, with a description of their completeness. Rare newspapers, which are known by only a few scattered issues, are minutely listed.

The check list of the issues in the library of the American Antiquarian Society follows the style of the Library of Congress "Check List of Eighteenth Century Newspapers," and records all supplements, missing issues and mutilations.

The arrangement is alphabetical by States and towns. Towns are placed according to their present State location. For convenience of alphabetization, the initial "The" in the titles of papers is disregarded. Papers are considered to be of folio size, unless otherwise stated. There are no abbreviations except in the names of the libraries where files are located, and these should be easily understood. A superior italic "m" is used in the listing of the Society's files to signify mutilated copy. The bibliography includes only newspapers, and does not list magazines; the distinction has sometimes been difficult to draw, but the test has generally been the inclusion of current news. Neither in the historical sketches nor in the listing of files is any account taken of the existence of the paper after 1820.

All files, except in a few instances, have been personally examined by the compiler of this list, and the facts stated have been drawn from an inspection of the papers themselves and not based on secondary authorities.

The bibliography will be published in the Proceedings in about seventeen installments, after which the material will be gathered into a volume, with an historical introduction, acknowledgment of assistance rendered, and a comprehensive index of titles and names of printers. Reprints of each installment will not be made, nor will the names of papers or printers be indexed in the Proceedings. The compiler will welcome additions and corrections.

SOUTH CAROLINA

[Cambridge] Anti-Monarchist, see under Edgefield.

Camden Gazette, 1816-1820+.

Weekly. Established Apr. 4, 1816, by P[] W. Johnston, with the title of "Camden Gazette." A few weeks afterward the imprint stated that the paper was printed by P. W. Johnston and edited by William Langley. Early in 1817, it was printed by George W. B. Harby for the Proprietors. Harby was succeeded by F[isher] Moses, who transferred the paper to Willie Vaughan Dec. 31, 1818. He was succeeded May 27, 1819, by John Cambridge who continued it until after 1820.

Mrs. Louise Proctor, Camden, has 1816-Apr. 8, 1819.

Mrs. G. G. Alexander, Camden, owned in 1917 a file Feb. 27, 1817-May 6, 1819.

T. J. Kirkland, Camden, has May 27, 1819-Dec. 1820.

Camden Intelligencer, 1803.

In the Centennial issue of the Charleston News and Courier, 1903, p. 30, it is stated "The Camden Intelligencer appeared June 5, 1803, with J. B. Hood as editor." No copy located.

Camden Journal, 1802.

Weekly. Established in May 1802, judging from the date of the first and only issue located, that of Oct. 19, 1802, vol 1, no. 21, published by J[ohn] Martin Slump, with the title of "The Camden Journal or the Camden Advertiser." (Title received through the kindness of Thomas J. Kirkland of Camden, who personally examined the paper).

[Charleston] Carolina Gazette, 1798-1820+.

Weekly. Established Jan. 4, 1798, by Freneau and Paine [Peter Freneau and Seth Paine] as a weekly called "The Carolina Gazette," in connection with their daily "City Gazette." It underwent the same change of publishers, as follows: John M'Iver, Jan. 8, 1801; [John] M'Iver & [David R.] Williams, Mar. 5, 1801; [Peter] Freneau & Williams, Jan. 7, 1802; Peter Freneau, Jan. 5, 1804; [Samuel J.] Elliott & [Samuel] Richards, July 4, 1806; Peter Freneau & Co. [Freneau, Elliott and Richards], Jan. 8, 1808; E[benezer] S. Thomas, Jan. 9, 1810; [Samuel H.] Skinner & [Joseph] Whilden, Jan. 6, 1816; Joseph Whilden, Jan. 8, 1820. With the issue of Oct. 22, 1814, it was called "Carolina Gazette"; with April 8, 1815, "The Carolina Gazette"; and with Jan. 6, 1816, "Carolina Gazette." Continued until after 1820. Although issued from the same office as the daily "City Gazette," it contained much new material and was not merely a weekly edition (see E. S. Thomas, "Reminiscences," 1840, vol. 1, p. 76, vol. 2, p. 48).

[Charleston] Chronicle of Liberty, 1783.

Weekly. Established Mar. 25, 1783, with the title of "The Chronicle of Liberty, or the Republican Intelligencer," published by Mansfield & Davis. James Mansfield was the editor and Joseph Davis the printer. This is the only issue located.

Lib. Congress, has Mar. 25, 1783.

[Charleston] City Gazette, 1787-1820+.

Daily. A continuation, without change of volume numbering, of "The Charleston Morning Post and Daily Advertiser." The earliest issue located with the new title of "The City Gazette, and the Daily Advertiser" is that of Nov. 6, 1787, vol. 5, no. 786, published by Haswell & M'Iver [Robert Haswell and John M'Iver]. With the issue of Dec. 18, 1787, the title was altered to "The City Gazette, or the Daily Advertiser." With the issue of Jan. 1, 1788, Haswell was replaced by John Markland, under the firm name of Markland & M'Iver. With the issue of Jan. 2, 1792, the title was altered to "The City Gazette & Daily Advertiser." With the issue of Jan. 1, 1794, the firm name became Markland, M'Iver & Co. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1795, the paper was purchased by Peter Freneau and Seth Paine, who published it under the firm name of Freneau and Paine, and at the same time the initial "The" was dropped from the title. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1801, the paper was bought and published by J. M'Iver & D[avid] R. Williams. In the issues from Jan. 2 to Feb. 26, the imprint of John M'Iver alone is given, but beginning with Feb. 27, 1801, the imprint reverted to J. M'Iver & D. R. Williams. M'Iver died May 7, 1801, but his name remained in the imprint until the issue of Jan. 1, 1802, when Freneau & Williams became the publishers. With the issue of Jan. 2, 1804, Williams retired, Peter Freneau became sole publisher and the title was shortened to "City Gazette." On July 1, 1806, Freneau transferred the paper to [Samuel J.] Elliott & [Samuel] Richards, and the title reverted to "City Gazette and Daily Advertiser." With the issue of Jan. 1, 1808, the two partners were joined by Peter Freneau, with the firm name of Peter Freneau & Co. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1810, the paper was bought and published by E[benezzer] S. Thomas, who changed the title, July 2, 1810, to "City Gazette and Commercial Advertiser." With the issue of Jan. 1, 1816, Thomas sold the paper to Samuel H. Skinner and Joseph Whilden, who used the firm name of Skinner & Whilden. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1820, this partnership was dissolved and Joseph Whilden became sole publisher, continuing the paper until after 1820. In connection with this paper a weekly was also issued under the title of "The Carolina Gazette," which see.

[Charleston] Columbian Herald, 1784-1796.

Semi-weekly, tri-weekly and daily. Established as a semi-weekly, Nov. 23, 1784, by T[homas] B. Bowen and J[ohn] Markland, with the title of "The Columbian Herald, or the Patriotic Courier of North-America." It became a tri-weekly with the issue of June 6, 1785, but with Nov. 24, 1785, again was published semi-weekly and also changed its title to "The Columbian Herald, or the Independent Courier of North-America." With the issue of Nov. 27, 1786, Markland retired, and a new firm was formed of Bowen, Vandle & Andrews [Thomas B. Bowen, James Vandle, and S—Andrews]. With the issue of Jan. 3, 1788, Andrews retired, and the paper was published by Bowen, & Co. [Bowen and Vandle]. At some time between Sept. 25, 1788 and Feb. 26, 1789, T. B. Bowen became sole publisher. In the fall of 1790 the paper became a tri-weekly, and in 1792 changed its title to "Columbian Herald, and the General Advertiser." At some time in 1793 or previously, Isaac Silliman was printer of the paper (see advertisement in issue of June 6, 1794). With the issue of July 27, 1793, William P. Harrison entered into partnership with Bowen, under the firm name of Harrison & Bowen, and the title became "Columbian Herald, or the Southern Star." There were various slight changes in the punctuation of the title in 1793-1795. With the issue of Oct. 7, 1795, the publishing firm became William Primrose Harrison & Co., the paper became a daily, and the title was changed to "Columbian Herald; or, the New Daily Advertiser." The paper was discontinued with the issue of Dec. 17, 1796, no. 1888.

Charleston Courier, 1803-1820+.

Daily. Established Jan. 10, 1803, by A[aron] S. Willington, for Loring Andrews, with the title of "Charleston Courier." With the issue of July 10, 1805, Andrews's name disappeared from the imprint and the paper was published by A. S. Willington, for the Proprietor. With the issue of Sept. 2, 1805, Andrews sold out his share entirely, and the paper was published by Benjamin B. Smith & Co. [Stephen C. Carpenter]. With the issue of Jan. 10, 1806, Smith withdrew and the publishers became Marchant, Willington & Co. [Stephen C. Carpenter, Frederick Dalcho, Peter T. Marchant and Aaron S. Willington]. Carpenter withdrew July 9, 1806, and removed to New York. With the issue of Apr. 1, 1809, the partnership was dissolved and the publishing firm became A. S. Willington & Co. [Willington and Dalcho]. With the issue of July 3, 1809, a new partnership was formed of E. Morford, Willington & Co. [Edmund Morford, A. S. Willington and F. Dalcho]. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1813, this partnership was dissolved, and A. S. Willington became sole proprietor, and so continued until after 1820. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1820, the title became "The Charleston Courier."

A semi-weekly country paper was announced in April, 1804, but not enough subscriptions were received to issue it. In 1809 a tri-weekly country paper was established, with the column heading of "The Courier" and was continued until after 1820. A weekly was established in September 1806, with the title of "Carolina Weekly Messenger," which see.

[Charleston] Daily Evening Gazette, 1795.

Daily. Established Jan. 3, 1795, judging from the date of the earliest issue located, that of Jan. 10, 1795, vol. 1, no. 7, published by James Carey, with the title of "The Daily Evening Gazette and Charleston Tea-Table Companion." The prospectus, as published in the "South Carolina State Gazette" of Dec. 16, 1794, announced that the first issue would appear on Jan. 1, 1795. The last issue located with this title is that of Feb. 18, 1795, vol. 1, no. 38. Apparently Carey continued the paper under the title of "The Telegraphe," which see.

Phil. Lib. Co. has Jan. 10, 12, 15, 16, Feb. 14, 16, 17, 18, 1795.

[Charleston] Echo du Sud, 1801.

Tri-weekly. Established in April 1801, judging from the date of the earliest issue located, that of June 22, 1801, vol. 1, no. 28, published by [Jean] Dacqueny & [Alexander] Bourgeois, with the title of "L'Echo du Sud. Moniteur Francais." It was a paper of quarto size. The last issue located, that of July 15, 1801, vol. 1, no. 37, announced its early expiration.

Harvard has June 22-July 15, 1801.

[Charleston] Evening Courier, 1798.

Semi-weekly. Established July 31, 1798, by [Gabriel M.] Bounetheau & [John J.] Evans, with the title of "Evening Vesper Courier," the word "Vesper" set in a crescent under a star in the center of the title. The publishers refer to their paper editorially as the "Vesper; or, the Evening Courier," but it was generally called the "Evening Courier." The last issue located is that of Nov. 16, 1798, vol. 1, no. 32.

Harvard has July 31-Nov. 16, 1798.

A. A. S. has Oct. 19.

Charleston Evening Gazette, 1785-1786.

Daily and tri-weekly. Established as a daily July 11, 1785, by J[oseph] V. Burd and R[obert] Haswell, with the title of "The Charleston Evening Gazette." With the issue of Jan. 12, 1786, J. V. Burd became sole publisher. With the issue of Aug. 7, 1786, Greenberry Hughes was taken into partnership under the firm name of J. V. Burd and G. Hughes, and the paper became a tri-weekly. Burd died Oct. 4, 1786, and with the issue of Oct. 9, G. Hughes became sole publisher. The last issue located is that of Oct. 18, 1786, vol. 2, no. 373.

Charleston Lib. Soc. has July 11, 1785-Oct. 18, 1786.

Harvard has May 13, 1786.

[Charleston] Evening Post, 1790.

In the Charleston "City Gazette," July 9, 1790, were published proposals for a new paper to be called "The Evening Post and General Advertiser," with James Carson as editor. There are references to the paper and its editor James Carson in the "City Gazette" of Sept. 7 and 8, 1790. No copy has been located. Carson was at Georgetown in 1791, publishing "The South-Carolina Independent Gazette."

Charleston Evening Post, 1815-1816.

Daily. Established early in January, 1815, judging from the date of the earliest issue located, that of April 19, 1815, vol. 1, no. 88, published by W[illiam] P. Young, with the title of "Charleston Evening Post; and Commercial and Political Gazette." The last issue located is that of Sept. 11, 1816, vol. 4, no. 516.

Charlestown Gazette, 1778-1780.

Weekly. Established late in August 1778, judging from the date of the first numbered issue located, that of Jan. 26, 1779, vol. 1, no. 23, published by Mary Crouch, & Company, with the title of "The Charlestown Gazette." With the issue of Jan. 18, 1780, vol. 2, no. 68, the name of Mary Crouch appears alone in the imprint. This furthermore is the last issue located.

Charleston Lib. Soc. has Nov. 3, 1778, suppl.; Jan. 26, Nov. 23, 1779; Jan. 11, 18, 1780.

Charleston Gazette, 1814.

Daily. Established Feb. 15, 1814, judging from the date of the earliest issue located, that of Mar. 1, 1814, vol. 1, no. 13, published by John L. Wilson, with the title of "The Charleston Gazette, and Mercantile Advertiser." It succeeded "The Investigator," changing the title and volume numbering, but continuing the advertisements. The last issue located is that of June 17, 1814, vol. 1, no. 101. The paper was undoubtedly sold in July 1814 to Isaac Harby, who established the "Southern Patriot" in its stead. "The Charleston Gazette" also published a tri-weekly issue for the country.

[Charleston] Gazette of the State of South-Carolina, 1770-1780, 1783-1785.

Weekly and semi-weekly. A revival of "The South-Carolina Gazette," which had been suspended in December, 1775. The first issue with the title of "The Gazette, of the State of South-Carolina" was that of Apr. 9, 1777, no. 2055, published by Peter Timothy. After a somewhat intermittent publication, a fire destroyed the printing-office on Jan. 15, 1778, and publication was not resumed until June 24, 1778, with which issue Peter Timothy entered into partnership with Nicholas Boden, under the firm name of Timothy and Boden. The paper was thus continued until the issue of Feb. 9, 1780, no. 2163, when it was suspended in view of the approach of the British forces near Charleston. Peter Timothy was taken as a prisoner to St. Augustine and in 1781 was drowned at sea. After the departure of the British and the Peace, the paper was revived July 16, 1783, no. 2160, by Ann Timothy, Peter's widow, and E— Walsh, under the firm name of A. Timothy and E. Walsh. The title was "The Gazette of the State of South-Carolina." Walsh retired because of illness, and with the issue of Aug. 27, 1783, the paper was printed for A[nn] Timothy. With the issue of July 26, 1784, it became a semi-weekly. It was so continued until the issue of Mar. 24, 1785, no. 2283, after which the title was changed to "The State Gazette of South-Carolina," which see.

Charleston Morning Post, 1786-1787.

Daily. A continuation, without change of volume numbering, of "The South-Carolina Gazette, and Public Advertiser." The first issue with the new title of "The Charleston Morning Post, and Daily Advertiser" was that of Jan. 18, 1786, vol. 4, no. 271, published by Childs, Haswell, & M'Iver [Nathan Childs, Robert Haswell and John M'Iver]. Childs died at Newport, R. I., June 26, 1787, and when the news of his death reached Charleston late in July, the imprint was changed to Haswell & M'Iver. The last issue with this title located is that of Oct. 17, 1787, vol. 5, no. 769, and within three weeks the title was changed to "The City Gazette, and the Daily Advertiser," which see.

[Charleston] Oracle, 1807.

Semi-weekly and tri-weekly. Established Jan. 1, 1807, by J[ohn] J. Negrin, with the title of "L'Oracle, Français-Americaïn." It was of folio size and published with alternate columns of French and English. With the issue of Feb. 17, 1807, the title was shortened to "L'Oracle," it became a tri-weekly of quarto size, and was published wholly in French. With the issue of July 7, 1807, it returned to a policy of alternate French and English. In November and December 1807, it was not issued regularly. The last issue located is that of Dec. 8, 1807, vol. 1, no. 136. On Jan. 1, 1808, Negrin was in New York City publishing "L'Oracle and Daily Advertiser."

[Charleston] Royal Gazette, 1781-1782.

Semi-weekly. Established Mar. 3, 1781, by R. Wells & Son [Robert and John Wells], with the title of "The Royal Gazette." Robert Wells was living in England at this time (see Amer. Loyalist Papers, vol. 56, p. 534, in N. Y. Pub. Library), and William Charles Wells advertised in "The South-Carolina and American General Gazette" of Feb. 28, 1781, that he was acting as attorney for Robert Wells, "late of Charleston." It was suspended from Aug. 7 to Sept. 7, 1782. The last issue located is that of Sept. 28, 1782, vol. 2, no. 154. In December 1782, the British evacuated Charleston, and John Wells left the city.

[Charleston] Royal South-Carolina Gazette, 1780-1782.

Tri-weekly and semi-weekly. Established in the spring of 1780, judging by the date of the earliest issue located, that of Sept. 19, 1780, vol. 1, no. 58, published by Robertson, Macdonald & Cameron [James Robertson, Donald Macdonald and Alexander Cameron], with the title of "The Royal South-Carolina Gazette." At some time between May 17, 1781 and Jan. 22, 1782, James Robertson became sole publisher, and continued the paper to the date of the last issue located, that of Sept. 12, 1782, vol. 5, no. 339, in which issue its discontinuance was announced. All three publishers returned to New York, where Macdonald died at Newtown, on Long Island, Sept. 28, 1782 (see Hildeburn "Sketches of Printers in New York," pp. 159-162, and the New York "Royal Gazette," Oct. 2, 1782).

[Charleston] South-Carolina and American General Gazette, 1764-1781.

Weekly and semi-weekly. A continuation, without change of volume numbering, of "The South-Carolina weekly Gazette." The first issue with the new title of "The South-Carolina and American General Gazette" was that of Apr. 4, 1764 (see quotation of advertisement in "Marriage Notices in The South-Carolina and American General Gazette," by A. S. Salley, Jr., 1914, p. 3). The paper was evidently started under this title by Robert Wells and David Bruce, as the supplement of Apr. 18, 1764, was printed by R. Wells and D. Bruce, for Robert Wells. Bruce continued as joint printer with Wells for about a year, as his name appears in the imprint of "The South-Carolina Almanack for 1765," and the issue of July 3, 1765, no. 347, was printed for R. Wells and D. Bruce. In the issue of Oct. 31, 1765, Robert Wells appears alone as publisher. With the issue of Jan. 6, 1775, the paper was printed by R. Wells and Son [John Wells], for Robert Wells, and with May 12, 1775, by R. Wells and Son. In May 1775, Robert Wells, who was a loyalist, left for England and never returned to the colonies (Amer. Loyalist Papers, vol. 56, p. 534 in N. Y. Pub. Lib.). The paper was suspended from May 31 to Aug. 2, 1776, because of the approach of the British fleet. With the issue of Nov. 20, 1777, John Wells, Jun., who favored the American cause, was given as sole publisher. Because of the invasion of the British troops, the paper was again suspended, from Apr. 30 to May 29, 1779. No issues are to be found between Dec. 17, 1779, no. 1087, and July 26, 1780, no. 1092, and as it was early in 1780 that the British invested Charleston, the paper was evidently suspended. John Wells espoused the British cause, however, and resumed the paper in July 1780. It became a semi-weekly in October 1780. The last issue with this title was that of Feb. 28, 1781, vol. 24, no. 1144, and the paper was succeeded by "The Royal Gazette," which see.

Charleston Lib. Soc. has Apr. 18, 1764, suppl.; May 30, 1766-Apr. 23, 1772; Aug. 10, Sept. 28, Oct. 5, 19, 22, Nov. 2, 1772; Mar. 23, 1773; Apr. 22, 1774-Dec. 17, 1779; July 26, Sept. 20, Nov. 1, 4, 15, Dec. 6-30, 1780; Jan. 3-Feb. 28, 1781.

[Charleston] South-Carolina Gazette, 1732-1775.

Weekly. Established Jan. 8, 1732, by T[homas] Whitmarsh, with the title of "The South-Carolina Gazette." The paper was suspended with the issue of Sept. 8, 1733, no. 86, and about ten days later Whitmarsh died (he was buried Sept. 22, 1733, "Register of St. Philip's Parish," p. 242). The paper was reestablished Feb. 2, 1734, with a new volume numbering, by L. Timothée, who with the issue of Apr. 6, 1734, gave his name under its anglicized form of Lewis Timothy. Timothy died and was buried on Dec. 30, 1738 ("Register of St. Philip's Parish," p. 258), and in the issue of Jan. 4, 1739, his widow, Elizabeth Timothy, announced that she would continue the paper, to be printed by her son Peter Timothy. His name appeared in the imprint and his mother afterwards transferred her interest to him. Publication was suspended for occasional short intervals, the longest being from Mar. 31 to Oct. 1, 1764, excepting the issue of Aug. 25; from Oct. 31, 1765 to June 2, 1766; and from Jan. 25 to Mar. 26, 1772. With the issue of May 7, 1772, the paper was published by Powell, Hughes, & Co. [Thomas Powell, Edward Hughes and Peter Timothy]. Hughes died July 30, 1772, and the publishers became T. Powell & Co. With the issue of Nov. 8, 1773, Peter Timothy again became the publisher. After a somewhat intermittent publication, the paper was suspended in December 1775. The issue of Dec. 11, 1775, no. 2053, was followed by one other number, probably Dec. 18, and the next issue appeared on Apr. 9, 1777, no. 2055, when the title was changed to "The Gazette, of the State of South-Carolina," which see.

[Charleston] South-Carolina Gazette and General Advertiser, 1783-1785.

Semi-weekly and daily. Established Mar. 15, 1783, with the title of "South-Carolina Gazette and General Advertiser," printed for J[ohn] Miller. Although ostensibly a semi-weekly, publication was irregular during the first two months, and there were changes in the punctuation of the title. With the issue of Oct. 26, 1784, the title was changed to "South-Carolina State Gazette, and General Advertiser." With the issue of Nov. 30, 1784, the paper was issued daily, the title becoming "South Carolina State Gazette and Daily Advertiser." With the issue of Apr. 4, 1785, Miller transferred the paper and it was published for his "brother," C[] Say. The last issue located is that of July 26, 1785, no. 434.

[Charleston] South-Carolina State-Gazette, 1794-1802.

Daily. A continuation, without change of volume numbering, of "The State Gazette of South-Carolina." The first issue with the new title of "South-Carolina State-Gazette & Timothy & Mason's Daily Advertiser" was that of Jan. 1, 1794, vol. 55, no. 4302, published daily by [Benjamin F.] Timothy & [William] Mason. During the next four years there were frequent changes in the punctuation and arrangement of the title, and the issue of Jan. 1, 1795, appeared with an engraved title "State Gazette of South Carolina," which was abandoned with the next issue for the regular title. The volume numbering, moreover, was often erroneous and inconsistent. With the issue of Jan. 1, 1798, Mason retired and the paper was published by Benjamin Franklin Timothy, under the title of "South-Carolina State Gazette, and Timothy's Daily Advertiser." It was so published up to Sept. 20, 1802, vol. 60, no. 6210, which if not the last issue was certainly near the last.

Weekly. Established Nov. 22, 1758, judging from the date of the earliest issue noted, that of Feb. 7, 1759, no. 12, published by Robert Wells, with the title of "The South-Carolina weekly Gazette." The only other issue located is that of Oct. 31, 1759, no. 50. On Apr. 4, 1764, Wells changed the title to "The South-Carolina and American General Gazette," which see.

Mrs. Charlotte D. Garriss, Columbia, who died 1924, owned the issue of Feb. 7, 1759, which is now untraceable. Lib. Congress has Oct. 31, 1759.

[Charleston] South-Carolina Weekly Gazette, 1783-1785.

Weekly, semi-weekly and tri-weekly. Established as a weekly Feb. 15, 1783, by Nathan Childs, with the title of "The South-Carolina Weekly Gazette." With the issue of Mar. 29, 1783, Robert Bruce was taken into partnership under the firm name of Nathan Childs & Company. With the issue of Mar. 3, 1784, the paper became a semi-weekly, and the title was changed to "The South-Carolina Gazette, and Public Advertiser." With the issue of Mar. 12, 1785, the two partners added John M'Iver to the firm under the firm name of Childs, M'Iver and Company. With the issue of July 12, 1785, the paper was published tri-weekly, but with Nov. 23, 1785, it again became a semi-weekly. With the issue of Jan. 7, 1786, Bruce retired and the firm name became Childs & M'Iver. The last issue with the title of "The South-Carolina Gazette, and Public Advertiser" was that of Jan. 14, 1786, no. 270, and on Jan. 18, the paper was issued daily under the title of "The Charleston Morning Post, and Daily Advertiser," which see.

[Charleston] South Carolina Weekly Journal, 1732.

There is a reference to this paper in "The South-Carolina Gazette" of July 15, 1732, where Eleazer Phillips advertises for debts due his son, Eleazer Phillips Jun., who had died July 10, 1732, mentioning subscriptions due for six months of the South Carolina Weekly Journal (see Bibliographical Society Papers, vol. 2, p. 32). In the issues of Mar. 22 to Apr. 5, 1735, Phillips advertises that he is about to depart the Province and asks for payments from those who "have forgot to pay for the South-Carolina Weekly Journal, printed by Eleazer Phillips, Jun. deceased."

[Charleston] Southern Patriot, 1814-1820+.

Daily. Established in July 1814, judging from the date of the earliest issue located, that of Jan. 5, 1815, vol. 2, no. 152, published by Isaac Harby, with the title of "Southern Patriot, and Commercial Advertiser." With the issue of Jan. 29, 1816, Robert Howard was taken into partnership, under the firm name of Isaac Harby & Co. With the issue of May 19, 1817, the partnership was dissolved and Robert Howard became sole publisher, and continued the paper until after 1820. A tri-weekly edition for the country was also issued, at first with only a column heading title, but with a page wide title begun Jan. 21, 1815.

[Charleston] State Gazette of South-Carolina, 1785-1793.

Semi-weekly and tri-weekly. A continuation of "The Gazette of the State of South-Carolina," and continuing the volume numbering and advertisements. The first issue with the new title of "The State Gazette of South-Carolina" was that of Mar. 28, 1785, no. 2284, published semi-weekly for A[nn] Timothy. Ann Timothy died Sept. 11, 1792, and with the issue of Sept. 20, 1792, the paper was printed by B[enjamin] F. Timothy "for the representatives of the late Mrs. Ann Timothy." With the issue of Oct. 30, 1792, it was published tri-weekly. With the issue of Apr. 5 or 12, 1793, the name of Benjamin Franklin Timothy appeared alone in the imprint. With the issue of May 27, 1793, William Mason was taken into partnership under the firm name of Timothy & Mason. The last issue with this title was that of Dec. 31, 1793, vol. 55, no. 4301, after which the paper became a daily and the title was changed to "South-Carolina State-Gazette & Timothy & Mason's Daily Advertiser," which see.

[Columbia] State Gazette, 1795-1820+.

Weekly. A continuation, without change of volume numbering, of "The Columbia Gazette." The first issue located with the new title of "The State Gazette" is that of Jan. 23, 1795, vol. 2, no. 4, whole no. 61, published by [William P.] Young & [Daniel] Faust. It was a small quarto. The last issue located with this title is that of Feb. 27, 1795, vol. 2, no. 9, whole no. 66. The title was changed, before June 1795, to "The South-Carolina State Gazette, and General Advertiser," the earliest issue with this title being that of June 5, 1795, vol. 2, no. 80, published by Young & Faust. It was then enlarged to folio, and it was stated that it would be issued semi-weekly during the sessions of the Legislature. At some time between Nov. 24, 1797 and Apr. 27, 1798, the imprint of the publishers was given as Daniel Faust & Company. With the issue of Nov. 29, 1799, the title was changed to "The South-Carolina Gazette, and Columbian Advertiser," the firm of Daniel Faust and W. P. Young was dissolved and Daniel Faust became sole publisher. At some time between September 1800 and Jan. 9, 1801 D[aniel] & J[acob] J. Faust became publishers and altered the title to "The South-Carolina State Gazette, and Columbian Advertiser." At some time between 1810 and 1816, Daniel Faust became sole publisher, and the title was changed to "State Gazette, and Columbian Advertiser." In the winter of 1818-1819, the title was again changed to "South-Carolina State Gazette, and Columbian Advertiser," and it was so continued until after 1820.

[Columbia] Telescope, 1815-1820+.

Weekly. Established Dec. 19, 1815, by Thomas W. Lorrain, with the title of "The Telescope." Early in 1817, Lorrain was succeeded by Cline & Hines [William Cline and — Hines]. At some time between 1817 and 1820, William Cline became sole publisher and continued the paper until after 1820. It is probable that Hines was John B. Hines, who went to Georgia to establish the Milledgeville "Reflector" in November 1817.

[Edgefield] Anti-Monarchist, 1811-1815.

Weekly. Established May 28, 1811, judging from advertisements in the earliest issue located, that of Sept. 21, 1811, vol. 1, no. 18, published by Thomas M. Davenport at Edgefield Court-House, with the title of "Anti-Monarchist, and South-Carolina Advertiser." The only issues located are those of Sept. 21, 28 and Nov. 2, 1811. In the "Mobile Gazette" of Apr. 1819 were printed proposals for a newspaper at Tuscaloosa to be established by Thomas M. Davenport, late editor of the Anti-Monarchist at Cambridge, S. C., "established and conducted through the late war" by him. Evidently the paper was moved to Cambridge, which town was about thirty miles from Edgefield Court-House.

[Georgetown] Carolina American, 1813, see Georgetown Gazette.

Georgetown Chronicle, 1796-1797.

Weekly and semi-weekly. A continuation, without change of volume numbering, of "The South-Carolina Independent Gazette." Although the change of title occurred at some time between 1792 and 1796, the first issue located with the new title of "The Georgetown Chronicle: and South-Carolina Weekly Advertiser" is that of Mar. 22, 1796, vol. 6, no. 263, printed by James Smylie. In the summer of 1797 publication was changed from weekly to semi-weekly, and the title was altered to "The Georgetown Chronicle, and South-Carolina Advertiser." The last issue located with this title is that of Nov. 1, 1797, vol. 7, no. 356.

Georgetown Gazette, 1798-1817.

Weekly and semi-weekly. Established May 8, 1798, by Elliott & Burd [—— Elliott and John Burd], with the title of "The Georgetown Gazette." With the issue of Sept. 7, 1798, it was changed from a weekly to a semi-weekly, returned to a weekly Jan. 2, 1799, and again made a semi-weekly Jan. 1, 1800. Upon this last date, the partnership was dissolved, and John Burd became sole publisher. Burd died Oct. 23, 1801, and the name of Claudius Beleurgey appeared in the imprint in the issue of Oct. 28. With the issue of Dec. 5, 1801, Beleurgey retired and the paper was printed for the heirs of the late John Burd. In 1802 the paper was printed by Andrew M'Farlan. M'Farlan died in June, 1806, and on Oct. 8, 1806, the paper was purchased and published by Francis

M. Baxter, who changed the title to "Georgetown Gazette, and Commercial Advertiser." Baxter published the paper certainly up to Dec. 12, 1810. After an apparently short suspension, the paper was continued, without change of volume numbering, by Thomas Tolman early in 1813, under the title of "Carolina American, and Georgetown Gazette," of which the only two issues located are those of Apr. 10 and 17, 1813. The next issue located is that of Apr. 27, 1814, published by Edward B. Cooke and entitled "Georgetown Gazette." The next, that of June 5, 1816, was published by Eleazer Waterman and entitled "The Georgetown Gazette, and Mercantile Advertiser." Waterman discontinued the paper June 28, 1817 (see Columbia "Telescope," July 8, 1817), and in October established the "Winyaw Intelligencer."

[Jacksonborough].

In the Charleston "Royal Gazette" of Mar. 13, 1782, there was reprinted the contents, in two columns, of a publication issued at Jacksonborough, with the date line of Mar. 1, 1782. The quotation was prefaced by the following statement: "The rebels in the country have contrived at length to publish something which bears the likeness though not the name of a newspaper. . . . We reprint the whole of this Jacksonborough publication."

This may have been a broadside, rather than a newspaper. The legislature convened at Jacksonborough from Jan. 8 to Feb. 26, 1782, at which time the British occupied Charleston. Under date of Jan. 26, 1782, the representatives voted that certain addresses should be printed in the "Gazette" (Journal of House of Representatives, 1782, Salley's reprint, p. 27). No copy of the Gazette has been located.

Parker's Ferry Gazette, 1782.

The Charleston "Royal Gazette" of June 26 and 29, 1782, quotes from the "Parker's Ferry Gazette," implying that the quotations were from issues of June 19 and 26. This paper was issued by the "rebels" at Parker's Ferry, about thirty-five miles west of Charleston, which at the time was in the possession of the British. No copy located.

[Pendleton] Miller's Weekly Messenger, 1807-1820+.

Weekly. Established Jan. 16, 1807, judging from the date of the earliest issue located, that of Mar. 20, 1807, published at Pendleton Court-House by J[ohn] Miller & Son, with the title of "Miller's Weekly Messenger." John Miller died Nov. 26, 1807, and his son John Miller continued the paper. About 1812 the title was changed to "The Pendleton Messenger." The 1819 issues were printed by John Miller & Son, and the 1820 issues by John Miller, Senior. Continued after 1820.

[Statesburg] Claremont Gazette, 1786.

No copy of this paper has been located. In the "Charleston Morning Post" of Nov. 7, 1786, it was noted that copies of the "Claremont Gazette" has been forwarded by Rev. Richard Furman. Since Statesburg, in Claremont County, was competing with Columbia at this time for the location of the State government, it is probable that the paper was published there.
