BY FREDERICK L. WEIS

INTRODUCTION

THE AMERICAN ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY has during its one hundred and thirty-five years elected 1407 members. Of these 1225 have been Resident Members elected from thirty-eight states and territories, and 182 have been Foreign Members elected from thirty-three foreign countries. Sixteen of these countries are situated in the Western Hemisphere, fifteen in Europe, and two in Asia.

In the election of members in 1813, Georgia was the most southern state represented, and Natchez, Mississippi, was our western frontier. During the following year members were elected from Ohio, Missouri, Tennessee, and Louisiana. Kentucky first appears in 1815; Michigan and Arkansas Territory each contributed members in 1821. By the end of the first decade there were twenty-nine foreign members and 173 members who resided in the United States outside of New England. Thus early did the Society assume a national and even an international character.

From 1812 to 1831 the number of members was unlimited and no distinction was made between resident and non-resident membership. Actually in these first two decades

481 members were elected, which is more than one-third of the total membership from the date of incorporation to the present time. Many gentlemen who were elected in that period did not acknowledge the notice, if they received it in those days of uncertain mails. Their names were winnowed from the rolls when a limit was set on the number of members in 1831. The cumulative list of members which was issued in 1836 shows that the names of 199 of those who had been elected since 1812 had been dropped as inactive. Eleven had declined, fourteen had resigned, and the rest apparently had not acknowledged election. In the cumulative list of 1912, and in this list, the dropped names have been restored. That these men were thought to merit election is significant; that they did not acknowledge it may have been accidental. Since 1831 communications have improved and a greater care has been exercised to make certain that members chosen would take an active interest in the Society, with the gratifying result that during the last century only three members have declined and sixteen have resigned. For a quarter of a century no resignations have occurred.

From 1831, when the membership was first fixed, until 1907, resident membership was limited to one hundred and forty. In April of the latter year this number was increased to one hundred and seventy-five, where it remained until October, 1923, when it was voted to change the limit to two hundred members.

During the earliest years, a large number of members were elected from distant towns and cities along the gradually extending western frontier of the United States. In most instances the persons so chosen became valuable members because they secured for the Society historical documents, newspapers and books, which have since become very rare. But at the same time, as we have seen, others, not fully acquainted with the aims and purposes of the Society, were not sufficiently interested to pay the small dues required. For this reason a short survey of the dates and amounts of these assessments may properly be given here.

According to the earliest By-Laws (1813), all members were assessed two dollars annually, and the payment of twenty dollars relieved a member of all further dues. In 1814, the By-Laws were changed so that only members residing in Massachusetts were taxed; and in 1820, an initiation fee of six dollars was asked of all new members while the same sum paid by a Massachusetts member exempted him from annual dues. Having received Mr. Thomas's legacy in 1831, the Society adopted a new set of By-Laws and abolished all dues. This was again changed in 1878, when an admission fee of five dollars was required of all new members and New England members were assessed an annual fee of five dollars, which could be commuted by the payment of fifty dollars. This arrangement continued until April, 1918, when the admission fee was abolished. In October, 1925, all fees and assessments were abolished. Thus between 1831 and 1876, and since 1925 (that is, during nearly half of its existence), membership in this Society has been purely honorary in character. The first list of members was published in November, 1813, as a part of An Account of the American Antiquarian Society, a pamphlet which is usually bound as the first of our old series of Proceedings. The second list appeared as an appendix to a Communication from the President, which was one of the two pamphlets which recorded the Proceedings of the meeting of October 24, 1814.

The custom of printing an annual list of living members in our Proceedings did not begin until 1909, but there were earlier sporadic lists of this character:

- 1856 Transactions, Vol. 3, pp. 365-9
- 1876 Proceedings, Oct. 1875, pp. 25-8
- 1881 Proceedings, (New Series), Vol. 1, pp. x-xiii
- 1885 Proceedings, (New Series), Vol. 3, pp. 509-13
- 1890 Proceedings, (New Series), Vol. 6, pp. ii-ix
- 1893 Proceedings, (New Series), Vol. 8, pp. x-xxi
- 1907 Proceedings, (New Series), Vol. 18, pp. xi-xxiv

The present is the sixth of our cumulative lists, which were printed as follows:

1812-1836	Transactions , Vol. 2, 1836, pp. 565-73	302 names
1812-1839	Proceedings , Oct. 1839, pp. 1-16	323 names
1812-1855	Proceedings , Oct. 1855, pp. 39-54	408 names
1855-1868	Proceedings , Oct. 1868	81 names
1812-1912	Proceedings , Vol. 22, pp. 357-406	1076 names
1812-1947	Proceedings , Vol. 56, pp. 289-333	1407 names

The previous cumulative lists of members have contained many inconsistencies and errors, the latter resulting chiefly from the meager records and poor communications of our early days. In the compilation of this revision, the earlier lists have been compared, the inconsistencies unraveled, and the dates checked with the voluminous biographical sources not available when the last cumulative list was compiled. Historical societies and libraries in other parts of the country have been very kind and helpful in locating the "lost" men of our first generation. The foreign consulates, also, have been obliging. Quite indispensable has been the knowledge of Mr. Brigham, who during his forty-two years as a member or an executive of this Society has personally known over 500 of the 1225 Resident Members who have been elected since 1812. Of the 135 men who were members in 1905, virtually all of whom he knew, all but four have died. Some of the members who were living in 1905 had been elected as far back as 1847. As the result of his travels in search of materials for his newspaper bibliography Mr. Brigham came to know many distant members who never attended meetings.

In the earlier lists foreign members have been grouped separately or otherwise distinguished, a practice which has here been dropped as unnecessary in view of the indication of residence. On this list the incorporators are distinguished by the date except in the case of Dr. William Paine, whose name through inadvertance or dislike of his Loyalist past was omitted from the list of incorporators in the charter as passed by the General Court. To correct this, Dr. Paine was elected on November 19, 1812, becoming thus the first member actually elected to the Society.
